STUDENT OF SPRING BROOK SCHOOL BEST ATHLETE IN COUNTY

Peter Enrico Wins First Place in Dash and Rope Climb Events for 10 Points

Peter Enrico of Spring Brook school, winning first places in the 100-yard dash and rope climb, for 10 points, was high individual point winner in the fifth annual Outagamie-co field and track meet held at McKinley athletic field Saturday afternoon. Lester Peters of Oakland school, with a first in the standing broad jump and third in the 100 yard dash, was second best individual performer with 6 points.

However, due to the fact that rain prevented staging the running broad jump event, Peters has a chance to take high point honors by winning first place in that event when it is held on the morning of June 10, Commencement day. It was decided to hold that event in the morning so that the cups could be awarded to the winners in the afternoon.

Spring Brook school scored 15 points for first place in the meet, due chiefly to Enrico. However, three other schools, Isar with 13 points, North Osborn with 11 and Stephenville with 8, each have a chance to win first place or at least boost their score by winning places in the running broad jump.

Following is a list of the girls who won places in each event and the school they represented:

Balancing test—Katie Ziewacz of Spring Brook; Ester Witt of Cedar

Lindbergh, Steenbock Have U. W. Traditions

Madison — (AP) — I think there is something in the atmosphere of the University of Wisconsin, which makes men like Prof. Henry Steenbock pass up immediate fortunes in order to stick by their jobs as scientific investigators, and men like Capt. Charles Lindbergh to set calmly out on courageous enterprises. And it is not the thing one might suspect. Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin said this week.

President Frank made the statement in answer to a query as to whether there wasn't some tangible element of sentiment at the University which motivated men of the type of Steenbock and Lindbergh to turn down luring offers which most Americans might quickly accept.

Prof. Steenbock discovered a process of irradiating foods so that during the process of assimilation, calcium, the bone-building material, would be added to the system. The discovery enables physicians to prescribe an effective cure for rickets. His discovery has turned over to a committee of University alumni, million dollar offers of food companies and others being turned down, that the invention may be given to the state and nation gratis.

Captain Lindbergh, who attended the university, during the period from 1920 to 1922, recently completed the first non-stop trans-Atlantic flight from New York to Paris and has announced his intention of refusing many attractive offers which would bring him fortune.

Another case, outstanding in this respect, is that of Prof. Stephen Moulton Babcock, inventor of the milk test bearing his name. The professor was content to give his discovery to the world, and then return to his laboratory for further research.

"It is not an orgy of talk about idealism and service," Dr. Frank said. "There is, in fact, a striking absence of pious exhortation here. A superficial observer might think the place a bit hard-boiled and materialistic but there is a tradition of relentless willingness to follow facts even if they run counter to tradition. And that spirit breeds more idealism and results in more genuine service than all the emotional exhortations in the world."

"I am not at all worried by the fact that Lindbergh, when a student here, was more interested in his own 'fooling around' in a laboratory than in the conventional recitation and examination procedures of the class-room. The important thing is NOT that the man was careless of conventional requirements, but that he did 'fool around' with problems. The problem of education is not to make all the Lindberghs conform to a standardized procedure, but to stimulate more students to 'fool around' with problems in the library and laboratory on their own initiative."

CONGRESSMAN PLANS VISIT OF DISTRICT

George J. Schneider Will Hold Series of Conferences with Supporters

Congressman George J. Schneider has arranged to visit all counties in his district for conferences with his friends according to an announcement made this week. He started his visit this week with conferences at DePere Friday morning. In the afternoon from 2 to 3 o'clock he was at the Green Bay postoffice. He also will be in Green Bay Saturday from 10 o'clock in the morning to 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Many people are interested in legislation for relief of individuals. Congressman Schneider indicated, World war veterans or their dependents often desire to take up claims for compensation, hospitalization or insurance with the congressman in person. Pension adjustments for Civil and Spanish war veterans often are necessary and some farmers desire help in receiving prompt payment for their losses resulting from the tuberculosis test of their cattle. All these matters will be considered by Congressman Schneider. The Ninth Congressional district, which Mr. Schneider represents, is composed of Brown, Door, Kewaunee, Outagamie, Langlade, Marinette, Oconto, Forest and Florencecos.

George Shumers, Jr., of Milwaukee, is visiting friends and relatives here.

Mr. Clapp will assist Dan Hardt, publicity director, in making addresses to high school students throughout the state and will help the committee on teachers' appointments.

Mr. Clapp has been active in debate, is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, scholastic fraternity, Tau Kappa Alpha, forensic fraternity, Phi Delta Epsilon, journalistic fraternity, Mace, honorary men's fraternity, and was editor of the Ariel, Lawrence college yearbook last year. He had accepted an appointment of assistantship at the University of Washington, in Seattle, Wash., in the public speaking department, but was released to take the Lawrence position.

ENGROSS STATE AID FOR RADIO STATION

Madison—(AP)—The possibility of a Badger radio station at Stevens Point affording closer contact between the state of Wisconsin and residents was given a boost Wednesday when the Senate engrossed Senator Severson's bill calling for a $12,000 appropriation to further the radio experiment.

The bill, introduced by Senator Severson two months ago, asks that the present station at Stevens Point be modernized and enlarged. The State Department of Markets at present makes use of the station's facilities in broadcasting market reports.

The senator suggests in planning improvements on the station that its usefulness will be doubled. One of the proposed plans includes the broadcasting of road conditions and weather reports. "This system of announcing road conditions," he said, "should prove of benefit to not only the residents of Wisconsin but also to the touring public."

JUDGE HEARS MOTIONS IN LIVESTOCK TRIAL

Motions in the case of the Wisconsin Livestock association against Roy Baumann and sons were heard by Judge Theodore Berg Thursday morning. The association brought suit against the Baumanns for $2,000 damages and the recovery of cattle which it was alleged had not been delivered under a contract existing between the parties.

In a countersuit filed the defendants asked approximately $20,000 damage for breach of contract and for time and money spent in caring for cattle belonging to the association. The jury awarded the Baumanns $3,000.

Keller and Keller are representing the plaintiffs and Cannon and Roemer are appearing for the defendants. Briefs were filed by both sides and Judge Berg has taken the case under advisement.

STAGE And SCREEN

DUSTIN FARNUM FORSAKES LOVED FIREFIDE FOR ROLE IN SPECTACULAR PRODUCTION

Dustin Farnum's first love was the stage. Later he began sharing his affections with the screen, but these are secondary now, for a wife and baby have supplanted them both. The baby, Estelle, has only been in this world a matter of a few months but she is the mistress of the Farnum household. Even "Dusty," an eight-year-old Boston bull terrier bearing Farnum's nick-name, has willingly taken a back seat in favor of the child.

Farnum was lured from his fireside only long enough to act his part in "The Flaming Frontier," an Edward Sedgwick-Universal production, that is to be shown at Fischers Appleton theatre today and tomorrow with an all-star cast. It was only the importance of the character that was offered him by Universal that tempted him to return to the screen after a year's absence. In this spectacular Western picture, Farnum impersonates Gen. George A. Custer, who, with his command, the Seventh United States Cavalry, was massacred by the Sioux at the battle of the Little Big Horn on June 25, 1876. In this connection, it is interesting to note that Farnum signed his contract with Universal on June 25, 1925, lacking only a year of being the 50th anniversary of one of the most tragic events that ever befell American arms. Incidentally, in making this picture, Universal had in mind the coming of the 50th anniversary of Custer's last stand and decided to make of the production a fitting memorial to Chief Yellow Hair, as the Indians called Custer, and the men of his gallant command. This has been done and not only the bravery of Gen. Custer and his men have been given recognition, but also the obstacles that were placed in his path by the unscrupulous clique that was then operating in Washington are shown as an interesting element of the plot. Custer's last stand has been produced for the screen with historic accuracy. Edward Sedgwick, who directed the picture, consulting with several survivors of the troops that came up too late to save Custer, while Farnum put in his spare time reading everything he could lay his hands on relating to the General and the massacre.

Two very individual costumes stand out among the gorgeous display of wraps, gowns and lingerie in the elaborate fashion show in Fox Films production "Fig Leaves" at the New Theatre today and Saturday.
The first is a trim tuxedo of black chiton velvet worn by Barbara Clayton. This is made with a severely tailored skirt, a mannish dinner coat over a tacked broadcloth silk vest and formal tuxedo evening shirt. Complementing the outfit is a stiff tri-corner hat of black batter's plush and a jaunty malacca cane.

Another original outfit is that worn by Betty Becklaw for misty weather. This is a raincoat of rubberized cloth of gold made in the conventional Southwestern style with a turban of gold rubber cloth and gold rubber boots to match.

Olivia Borden wears some marvelous gowns when she appears as the featured model in the fashion show. George O'Brien plays the leading male role with Andre de Branger as the heavy. Others in the cast are Phyllis Haver, Edna Mae Jensen, William Austin, Charles Conklin, Dorothy Dunbar and Cecile Evans. Howard Hawks, author of the original story from which the picture was adapted, directed the production.

The offices of the undersigned will be closed Saturday afternoon until October first.

COMPLETE TEMPORARY PLANS TO SELL MILK

Farmers who have been taking their milk to the cheese factory owned by Ben Krueger, town of Center, which burned to the ground Wednesday morning, met Wednesday evening to plan temporary arrangements for selling their product now. Between 7,000 and 8,000 pounds of milk was taken to the factory daily. Different factories nearby will buy the milk for the time being, although most of it will be taken to the Seymour cheese factory, it was said.

Mr. Krueger asked the farmers to pay for rebuilding the factory. He said he would install the machinery. He could not afford to both build and equip the new factory, he reported. No definite action on his proposal was taken.

GRADE SCHOOLS CLOSE WITH ANNUAL PICNICS

School picnics were held in the grade schools of the city Thursday as the final social events of the year. Pupils returned Friday morning to receive their report cards, and teachers will make a final check up before leaving for their summer vacations.

The sixth grade at the Lincoln school chartered a bus to go to Green Bay. The children went through the state reformatory and then enjoyed a picnic luncheon at Bay beach. Other grades went to parks in the city and at Neenah and Menasha. Money for the picnics was collected by some grades through candy sales.

BILL WOULD ALLOW STATE TO OPERATE OWN WATER POWERS

Madison: Assemblyman Introduces Resolution to Amend Constitution

Madison—(CP)—Assemblyman Alvin C. Reis, Madison, on Thursday introduced a joint resolution to amend the constitution so as to allow the state of Wisconsin to take over and operate its water powers. This resolution must be passed upon by the legislature of 1927 and 1928 and then adopted by vote of the people before it can become part of the Wisconsin constitution.

"Water power control," Mr. Reis said, "will be an outstanding national issue in the Congressional campaign of 1928 in view of recent conferences held in Washington between liberals and conservatives of all parties who have joined hands to establish federal control over the great water power resources of the government."

"The history of Wisconsin may be wrapped up in our water powers. Forty-eight per cent of the power supplied by public utilities in Wisconsin today comes from falling water. The electric lighting of half our cities is due to Wisconsin's rivers. Seventy-six per cent of the paper mills of Wisconsin are turned by water."

"We face this fact: Wisconsin has no coal. Wisconsin has no oil. Our sole natural source of mechanical energy is water power."

"What is the water power situation in Wisconsin today? Two-thirds of our water power has already been developed and is under either private or municipal control. One-third remains undeveloped, an unharvested, as yet untapped pool of power. Wisconsin, eighth state in the union in the amount of developed water power, stands first among the east north central states in the quantity of remaining undeveloped, potential power."

"The pressing question is how to conserve and deal with this power. We are up against formidable interests. Twelve public utility corporations representing ten billions of dollars control 65 per cent of all electric power in the United States."

"On Tuesday of this week the United States Supreme Court handed down a decision sustaining the 'capture' clause of the Wisconsin water power law which provides that, if the state or municipality has the legal authority to operate water powers and pur-

TAKES WRONG CAR BUT DISCOVERS MISTAKE

Another case of inability to recognize an automobile was brought to the attention of police this week. A Dodge coupe was reported stolen at Waverly beach Sunday night. Early Monday morning, however, a man from Oshkosh drove the car to the police station and declared he had mistaken it for that of a friend's. He said his friend had given him the keys to his car and told him to drive it to Oshkosh. The owner drove away in his own car and forgot to tell his companion that he was taking it.

TWO SCOUTS INVESTED WITH TENDERFOOT RANK

Two Boy Scouts of Troop 2, First Methodist church, were invested with their tenderfoot ranks Tuesday evening at the church, and another became a second class Scout. The new tenderfoot Scouts are Harold White and Howard Lueders and the new second class Scout is Fred Marshall. Randall Penhale of the First Methodist church of Menasha was in charge of the ceremony.

chases the water power privileges from an existing owner after thirty years from the date of the franchise given the owner, the price which it pays therefor need be only the value of the original franchise; and the state need not pay for the increase in value which accrued in those thirty years. This law was passed by the Wisconsin legislature in 1915."

"If this program for water power utilization is adopted by Wisconsin, it means that up until 1945 the state can develop new water powers by condemning the sites and paying the present value and after 1945 can recapture the water power privileges which have been granted prior to that date by paying the value which existed at the date of the grant, if the grant had been made at least thirty years previously."

French Women Don Cotton Hose As Hard Times Appear

BY MINOTT SAUNDERS
NEA Service Correspondent

Paris—Money is becoming tighter and tighter here. The pinch of "stabilization" is being felt in all walks of life. Americans who know the city and who wisely come early to avoid the tourist rush soon discover that the past few months have brought an astonishing change.

Paris today is almost as expensive as London or New York. It is still gay underneath the surface, but the price of fun is higher.

On the boulevards it is a common sight to see the girls wearing cotton stockings. This is an accurate barometer of how times have changed since the franc "improved." Apparently there is something amiss with the old saying that a French girl would buy silk stockings rather than a dinner because she knew that with the stockings she could get the dinner. Possibly the old order no longer prevails.

Dinners are costly and the fashionable restaurants are not doing so well. A few years ago it was the practice for these restaurants to close for two or three months during the summer to wait for the customers to return from Deauville, Biarritz and Switzerland. This gave an excellent opportunity for house-cleaning and renovations. "This year many of them have closed during the early spring months for renovations," but it is significant that they are timing their openings for the first flood of the tourist trade. Montmartre is marking time. "The hill" is almost as dismal at night as it is dreary by day. The familiar resorts which have not been forced to close by the loss of patronage are courageously struggling against time, like a pneumonia patient awaiting the strengthening injection of oxygen. These victims of sterner times are also looking to the tourist trade to set the lights ablaze and put the champagne corks popping.

In commercial life the conservative firms are thriving, but the poorer people suffer because of high prices and low wages. The coal miners threaten a general strike rather than submit to the slightest cut in the wage scale. The government is studying the problem, with sympathy for the workers.

Good old bargain days are over. Tourists will discover that by the time they buy a pay duty they will be not better off than if they did their shopping at home.

But if Paris is no longer Easy Street, it is little changed in its character and picturesque personality. Aside from differences caused by financial stress, visitors this year will find it as fascinating as ever. The people who laughed on the boulevards through the war are capable of laughter still.

Aprons, raincoats, slip covers, etc. are made from waterproof paper.

630 YEARBOOKS OF HIGH SCHOOL ARE ISSUED THIS WEEK

Medieval Theme Is Basis for Attractive Art Work in the "Clarion"

Six hundred thirty "Clarions," Appleton high schools yearbooks, were distributed to students Wednesday following the annual class day exercises at the school. The book, published by the senior class, is dedicated to Miss Ethel Carter, "friend and teacher" of the graduating class.

Attractive art work in the volume is based on a medieval theme. Knights, old castles, kings and pages, dragons and scenes of gallantry figure in the illustrations. The book is divided into eight sections. Our School, Faculty, Classes, Honors, School Life, Athletics, Humor and Appleton Our Mutual Friend.

Many illustrations picture activities of the school, faculty and students. Action pictures, showing classes at work in the various departments are a new feature. Cartoons illustrate the humor section. Scenes in and near Appleton.

Touring Suggestions

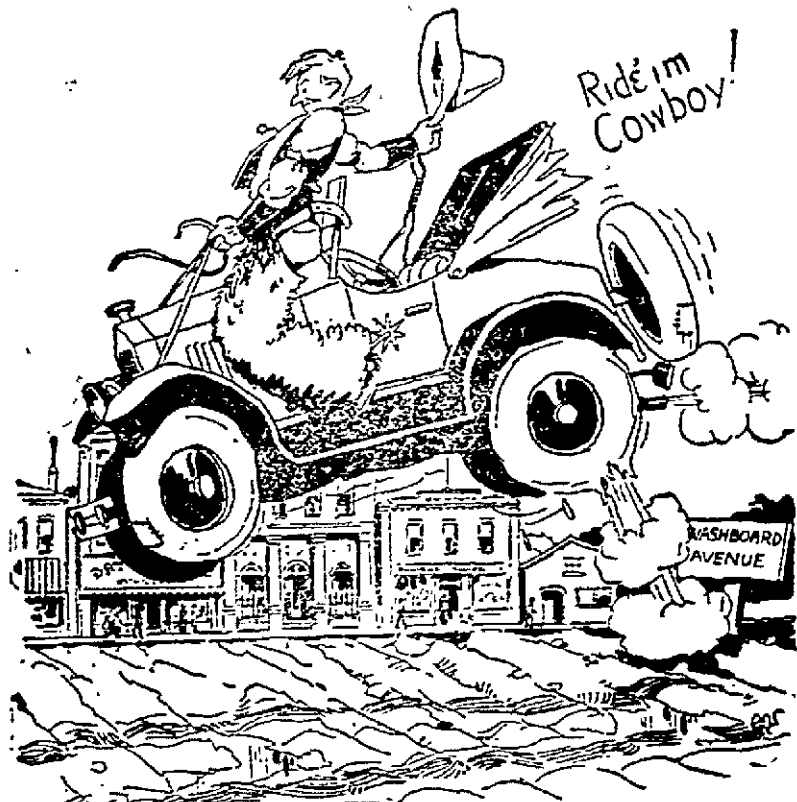

- 1—The Pipestone Quarries in Minnesota are well known because of the Indian lore and legend associated with the peculiarly reddish stone found here. This stone was used by the Indians for making peace pipes. Large rocks called "The Three Maidens" are the subject of a legend of fierce battles between warring tribes. These quarries are part of the setting of Longfellow's immortal poem, "Hiawatha." Near State Highways 47 and 6.
- 2—Higgins Lake, Michigan. Remains of the old walled town of the Yemokosh, the powerful tribe of Indians who dominated this section before Columbus discovered America. Camp Curmulla, the outing camp of the American Legion is located here. State Trunk Line M-14.
- 3—Gay Mills, Wisconsin, in the heart of the Kickapoo Valley. Splendid view of the Kickapoo River curving its sleepy way through the narrow valley. Nine hundred acres of cherry and apple orchards. State Trunk 131.
- 4—Rapid Canyon, one of the beautiful canyons in the Black Hills, South Dakota. Fine trout fishing in Rapid Creek. Many summer cottages and lodges. South Dakota Highways 40 and 79, U. S. 16.
- 5—Grand Detour, a New England village transplanted to the Illinois prairie, where John Deere wrought the first steel plow. Near Dixon, State Highway 2.
- 6—Lake Taneycoma, in the rugged region of the White River near Hollister, Missouri. One of the largest power lakes in the Middle West. Famed for its fishing and summer sports. Shaded by huge peaks and heavy timberland. U. S. Highway 65.
- 7—Home of Nancy Hanks Lincoln, mother of Abraham Lincoln, at Lincoln City, Indiana. State Highway 18.
- 8—The yawning hole in the bed of the Big Smoky River which has caused so much conjecture among scientists. The earth fell away at this spot for apparently no reason whatever, leaving a hole several hundred feet deep and of great width. Near Sharon Springs, Kansas, on State Highway 22.
- 9—"The Little Brown Church in the Vale," made world famous by the song of Dr. W. S. Pitts. Hundreds of young couples come from far and near to be married within its appealing old walls. The number of marriages solemnized here annually is exceeded only by the "Little Church Around the Corner" in New York City. Nashua, Iowa, State Highway 40.
- 10—Fort Yates, North Dakota, most strategic point on the Missouri in the days of Sitting Bull. Grave of Sitting Bull, historic cemetery, Bells of Yates Chimes, Standing Rock Monument, from which the reservation takes its name. Highway 6.

Tire Quality is not an abstract term measured in the claims of the manufacturer, the immensity of plants, or the largeness of distribution. Tire Quality is a concrete characteristic measured only in terms of service and must be built.

$10,000 DAMAGES SOUGHT BY DRIVER WHO STRUCK TRUCK

Cohodas Brothers Company
of Green Bay Is Sued by Appleton Man

Suit for $10,000 damages brought by Ruben O. Kleist, Appleton, against the Cohodas Brothers company of Green Bay and the United Fidelity and Guaranty company opened in the higher branch of municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg Thursday morning. A jury was drawn and taking of testimony was started. Kleist and Bosser represented the defendant and Morgan and Johns are appearing for the plaintiff.

Kleist alleges that a truck belonging to the Cohodas Brothers was parked on Federal Highway 41, formerly State Highway 15, without lights and so far out in the road and not allowing sufficient room for a car to pass, and that he ran into the truck, seriously injuring himself and demolishing his car. The accident is alleged to have happened at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, Nov. 26, 1926, several hundred feet outside the north city limits of Kaukauna.

It is further alleged that the truck was covered with a drab or olive colored canvas which was hard to see owing to a misty rain and snow which was falling at the time.

The plaintiff alleges that he received a fractured skull, lacerations of his arms and face, which will leave permanent scars, and a permanent injury to his left eye.

The defendants allege that Kleist was driving at a high rate of speed, that he failed to exercise ordinary care in looking out for parked cars, and that he did not have his machine under control.

Following is a list of the jury men: John Kippenham, 1-215 S. Mason-st. August Densch, 126 W. Winnebago-st.; Carroll Rector, 1421 N. Harrison-st.; Lloyd Ackerman, 612 W. Oklahoma-st.; C. S. MARQUETTE STARS
IN 2 MORE EVENTSCentral Conference, National Intercollegiate on M. U.
Schedule

Milwaukee—Track athletes of Marquette university, finished with their season of dual meets and relay carnivals, now are preparing for their two final appearances of the year, in the Central Conference outdoor meet at East Lansing, Mich., Saturday and in the National Intercollegiate in Chicago, June 10 and 11.

Marquette competed in the Central conference indoor meet at Notre Dame in March, and placed a good third in a field of fifteen schools. Many of the marks made there were impressive and compared well with those of other conferences, and it is expected that some brilliant performances will be turned in at East Lansing.

Michigan State college is host to the meet, and while Marquette, Notre Dame, Butler and the Michigan Aggies are the member schools, other conference teams have been invited to compete. The field will include athletes able to equal Big Ten marks, notably in the distance runs, sprints, hurdles, and pole vault. Coach Conrad St. Jennings of Marquette has not announced his squad for the meet, but he is expected to take about twelve men.

Only the outstanding Marquette stars will go to Chicago for the National Intercollegiate track and field meet in Grant Park stadium. This means that Capt. Buster Shimek will be there for the two mile run, and should rule a favorite as he has won this season at the Drake, and Kansas relays, as well as in several dual engagements. Frank Gleser will compete in the pole vault, and Coach Jennings also plans on entering Henry Pfleger in the mile or two-mile, and Leo Loftus in the 440.

DUNDEE IS GIVEN
CHANCE WITH PETE

Expert Opinion Sharply Divided as Latzo Defends Crown in New York

New York—(AP)—With expert opinion sharply divided as to the outcome of the fight between the Italian champion, and Joe Dundee, the Baltimore challenger, will settle their differences over the 15 round route Friday night at the Polo Grounds.

Although the odds were slightly in Latzo's favor, some of the critics favored his Italian-American rival because of the expressed doubt of the champion's ability to make the 17-pound limit at 2 o'clock without weakening himself. Al Thomas, Latzo's trainer, said the former Soranton mine boy scaled under the limit a few days ago and would enter the ring at his full strength.

Dundee is a natural welterweight and has no trouble making the weight limit. He has done his training in Baltimore and his handlers declare he is in perfect physical condition. This is the first time Latzo has actually defended his title over the championship distance and Dundee realizing a lifetime ambition—a chance at the welterweight crown—has determined to throw everything he has at his command into this one effort.

A majority of the critics believe the contest will go the limit. Latzo a straight hitter, exceptionally rugged, has won most of his battles by wearing down his opponents. He is a good ring general, comes from fighting stock and can assimilate punishment. Dundee has shown ability to retrieve lost ground, is game and courageous, fairly aggressive and a stiff puncher. Preliminaries will start at 8:15 o'clock Eastern Daylight time and the main bout is scheduled at 10.

Thursday—Legion 6, Civics club 4
Friday—Badgers vs Interlake

A ninth-inning rally by the American Legion squad Thursday afternoon prevented the Civic club softball team from winning its first game in the City Twilight loop. The Legion team squeezed out a 4-3 win by the rally, breaking up a fine hurler's duel between Basing of the Civic and Graf, which had been waged for eight hard frames. Poor fielding by the losers gave the Legion men several chances to sew up the battle.

The win tied the rejuvenated Soldiers for fifth place in the loop with the Bankers and drove the Civics men deeper into the cellar. The Civics still have to win a game. Friday the Badgers and Interlake, first division teams, meet.

Eight Sets Of Brothers
Now Play In Major Loops

BY BILLY EVANS
Brother acts in major league baseball are getting to be quite the vogue. Eight family trees are represented in the big show by pairs of brothers and most of them are doing mighty well, thank you.

The unusual success that the Waner boys have had with Pittsburgh has called attention to the fact that seven other pairs of brothers are doing business under the big tent.

Last year Pittsburgh secured Paul Waner from the Coast League and he immediately developed into a star. As a matter of fact, no one player contributed more to the success the Pirates attained last year than Paul Waner.

His timely batting—he hit .336 in his first year—was a potent factor in keeping Pittsburgh in the running.

In the field he performed as brilliantly. While Paul was shining in the majors, brother Lloyd, the property of the Pittsburgh club, was going great guns in the South Atlantic League. He finished with a mark of .345 at the bat.

This spring Manager Donie Bush surprised the experts by giving the two Waner boys positions in the Pittsburgh outfield. It is one of the few instances in baseball where brothers have played the outfield for the same team.

When Manager Bob O'Farrell signed Catcher Bob Schang as one of his backstop assistants it gave two brothers big league jobs in the same city but on different teams. Waldo Schang is one of the mainstays of the Browns back of the bat, having come here in a trade with New York.

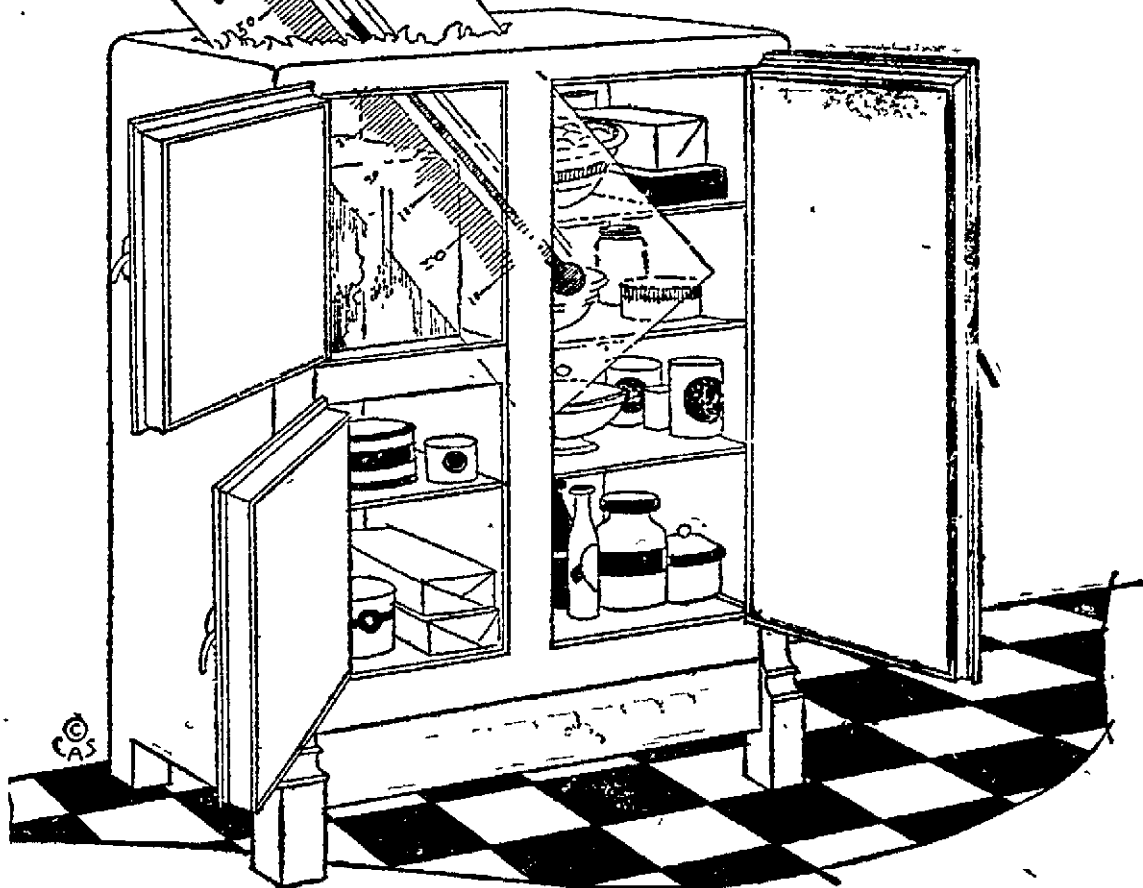

Waldo Schang first attracted attention back in 1912 while with the Buffalo club of the old Eastern League, now known as the International. His ability to hit and throw were outstanding features and Connie Mack grabbed him. He has been in the American League ever since.

Six other famous families are represented in the majors, the other brother acts being the Meusels, Bob with the Yankees and Irish with Brooklyn; the Jarpes, Jessu with Brooklyn and Virgil with New York; the Cooneyes, Jimmy with the Chicago Cubs and Johnny with the Braves; the Falks, Ed with the Chicago White Sox and Chester with the St. Louis Browns; the Roetters, Walter with the St. Louis Cardinals and Oscar with Brooklyn; the Sewells, Joe and Luke, with Cleveland.

It is a rather unusual fact that in most cases the brothers start at the same position. The Schangs are catchers, the Meusels and Waners are outfielders, the Barnes boys are pitchers, the Cooneyes are infielders, Johnny also being a pretty fair pitcher. The Falk boys started as hurlers, but Ed's ability to hit caused him to be made over into an outfielder. He is now one of the best in the game. Joe Sewell is rated the best shortstop in the American League and Luke is one of the leading catchers.

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

by Anne Austin

THIS HAS HAPPENED. BILLY WELLS, NYDA LOMAX, and WINNIE SHILTON, employees of the big Curtis department store, are taken into the home of their employer as his wards for one year, because he wants to help them further their ambitions. Billy, who is only a concert violinist, is the only one that is sincere. The other two lie to enjoy T. Q.'s generosity.

The girls accidentally learn he intends adopting one of them when the year is up, and Winnie and Nyda turn the house into a place of intrigue and confusion. She is infatuated with DAL ROMANINE, nephew of Mrs. MEADOWS, the hostess.

She fears Dal is "playing" both her and Winnie Shilton, and her suspicions are heightened when the two are absent from the city during the same week-end.

In spite of this infatuation, Billy tenderly remembers CLAY CURTIS, son of her benefactor, who has disinherited himself and is now boarding with Mr. Wells in a poor part of town, working in a factory by day and writing music at night. Billy neglects her music and finally brings on a breakdown. She and CONSTANCE BRADLEY, a charming girl of the wealthy set, decided to go to Crescent Lake for a month. The maid gives a note to Billy from Dal, begging her to meet him that night in the summer house. When she steals out to meet him, she asks him if he has an interest in the gown shop where he introduced her to make a purchase. With his usual disarming candor, he sets at rest her fears that he has made a profit on her. As Billy returns to the house, she is amazed to see EDDIE BANNING, Nyda's chauffeur-sweetheart of department store days, coming out of Nyda's window and leaving by the fire escape.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XL

"Well, what do you want?" Nyda demanded angrily, as Billy only stared at her, wide-eyed and frightened.

"I—let me come in, Nyda," Billy whispered, slipping into the room as she spoke.

"Please close the door, Nyda, did I wake you up?" But a glance at Nyda's right hand, which held a half-smoked cigaret, told her that that could not be the explanation of the strange sight she had witnessed. "I—I saw a man climbing out of your window—"

"That's a lie," Nyda's sudden, beautiful face was suddenly distorted with fury. "I've been in my room for half an hour, and nobody's been here! I see! You're trying to frame something on me, to queer me with T. Q."

"Nyda! I was frightened for you! I—I thought you might have been attacked—or robbed—I saw him, I tell you."

"And pray tell me how you saw any such thing? Where were you, little angel? Poor little sick girl! Papa Curtis has to hold you hand and get doctors for you and send you flowers and give you expensive trips to Crescent Lake! Poor little sick baby! What were you doing out at midnight, so you could spy on me?"

One of Nyda's long arms shot out, her long fingers closed over Billy's throat.

"Let-me-go!" Billy gasped, under pressure of those murderous fingers.

"All right—but get out of here! Take your damned luggage to Dal Romaine or T. Q. Curtis or anyone you please! And I'll have a sweet story to tell! Then we'll see what dear Daddy Curtis thinks of his little angel genius child! Get, I tell you!"

Billy did not wait to be told again. She ran to the door and tore it open. It was only by catching at the door jamb that she saved herself from falling over a crouching figure.

"Mrs. Meadows!" she gasped, wondering if she had gone completely crazy.

"I—I thought I heard a noise—a burglar or something," Mrs. Meadows stammered, a dark flush staining her softly wrinkled old face. "Is everything all right?"

"Of course," Billy lied, doing her utmost to get control of her face and voice. "I've been out for a breath of fresh air. I—I couldn't sleep. Then I went to tell Nyda goodnight. I'm leaving tomorrow for Crescent Lake, you know. Good night, Mrs. Meadows, I suppose I'll see you before I go."

Without another glance at the trembling old woman who was trying pitifully to get back her dignity, and to pretend that she had not lily and spied, Billy ran to her own door, fumbling with shaking hands for the key.

Her mind swerved sickly from the only interpretation she could put upon the bit of ugly drama she had stumbled upon. And why—why—was Mrs. Meadows listening at keyholes, spying, lying? Had T. Q. Curtis stooped so low as to hire a spy to report on the actions of the girls? Wouldn't T. Q. Curtis be justified in evicting them both from his home? Winnie would be left then, to win that strange secret contest that was to end in the adoption of a daughter and an heiress for the Curtis millions. But who was she—she, Billy Wells, who had stolen out for a midnight rendezvous with the man whom T. Q. Curtis hated—to judge either Nyda or Winnie?

And underneath her self-loathing ran a swift, dizzying current of delight that Dal Romaine had held her in his arms, had reminded her, as if there had never been any doubt of it, that she was to marry him. Engaged! Engaged! Dal loved her, wanted to marry her, expecting nothing else than to marry her when the year was up.

When Viola brought her breakfast to her the next morning, the maid almost dropped the tray when she caught sight of Billy's face.

"Why, Miss Billy, you worse!" she ejaculated. "Who been smudging black under your pretty blue eyes?"

"And your lips—why, they're purple, Miss Billy."

"I'm all right, Viola. I just didn't sleep very well." She struggled to a sitting position in bed, and watch Viola adjust the wicker tray stand across the bed. "Ugh! Viola! There's enough here to feed a family of day laborers. It makes me sick to look at all this food. Wait, I'll drink the orange juice and the coffee."

Her train did not leave until mid-afternoon. Viola, cheerfully voluble, finished Billy's packing for her, while the semi-invalid lay, dressed for the journey, on the chaise longue. Mrs. Meadows came in two or three times during the course of the morning, with polite offers of assistance and advice, and Billy was amazed to find that there was not the slightest change in her manner. "I must have been dreaming last night," she decided at last.

At noon "old T. Q." insisted on carrying her down to the dining room in his arms, for a farewell "family meal." Nyda and Winnie were both there, and like Mrs. Meadows, Nyda acted exactly as if nothing had happened the night before. Both Nyda and Winnie pretended a great solicitude for Billy and promised, like the good little foster sisters they were supposed to be, to write her all the news. T. Q. had a minute alone with her after he had carried her back upstairs to her room.

"I haven't any right to ask it of you, but as one friend to another, I'd like to ask you to make me a promise, Billy child."

Billy forced herself to smile at him sunnily, but her heart beat fast with apprehension, as she nodded assent.

"I want you to promise not to write to me—well, to any man but me while you're gone. And you don't have to write to me unless you feel like it, if you want to. But I want your mind to be absolutely at rest for the next month. You understand, don't you, child?"

Knowing that he meant Dal Romaine, she was grateful to him for not mentioning the name. "I promise, Mr. Curtis."

She did not see Dal before she left.

for the train with Constance Bradley. Mrs. Wells, more troubled than Billy had ever seen her, arrived at the Curtis mansion two hours before train time, in response to a telephone message from her daughter.

"Now, mother," Billy pleaded, after she had kissed her a dozen times and explained the situation to her with as little emphasis on her own illness as possible, "you're not to worry, do you hear? I'm not sick. I'm just tired and nervous, and Mr. Curtis thought I needed a real rest. Smile pretty for your baby," she begged, smiling through her own too-ready tears.

"I've had a sort of feeling that something was going to happen," Mrs. Wells worried. "Clay's been going around looking like a ghost, and I hardly ever see you any more."

"Is Clay sick?" Billy cried, surprised at the throb of pity that shook her heart.

"Not sick exactly. I guess," Mrs. Wells conceded. "But puny-like, and moody. He spends every evening in his own room, writing music, or thumping at the piano. He has your room now, and I had the piano moved in there for him, so he could play oil he wanted to. He writes a bit and plays a bit and some of it sounds simply terrible—like a boiler factory."

Billy smiled at her old grin. "He's writing a symphony. I gave him the idea for it, mother. I've at least done that much for Clay."

"I knew it!" Her mother nodded, sagely. "You two've had a silly spat and he's creeping around like a ghost and you're flat on your back with a nervous breakdown. A always knew you'd take love hard! If it ever hit you, best thing for you to do is to make up with Clay and you'll get your appetite back and can throw away that bottle of sleeping tablets."

"I'm afraid it's not so simple as that, darling," Billy told her gently.

Mrs. Wells did not go to the station with the two girls, and Billy knew that her mother refused Constance's offer of a seat in the Bradley sedan because she was shy of the aristocratic reserved girl. But it was that very reserve, with warm, genuine friendliness underlying it, that made Billy feel more at home with her than with anyone she had met. She could be herself with Constance Bradley.

During the long, lazy month that followed the two girls became the closest of friends, yet neither would have dreamed of intruding upon the privacy of the other. They occupied a luxurious suite in the most exclusive of the resort hotels, seeing just enough of each other to cement the friendship but not to endanger it, playing golf, usually in foursomes, with other guests of the hotel, which was not half filled and therefore extremely comfortable; reading, sleeping, enjoying the excellent meals; strolling in the spring evenings over flower-scented country roads, listening, with quiet enjoyment, to the very good three-piece orchestra that played for an hour every evening on the mezzanine floor of the hotel.

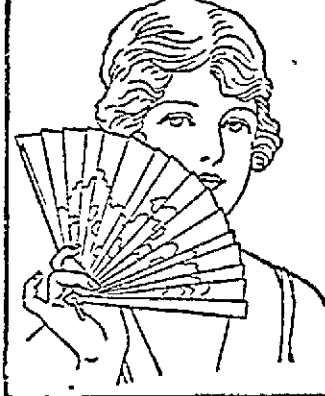

Billy did not hear from dal, and his name was not mentioned in the few letters she received. As she had expected, Nyda and Winnie did not write her a single real letter; hastily scrawled postcards fulfilled the letter of their promise to Mr. Curtis. The spell which had bound her so painfully and so accidentally to the mystic, dark man who looked like a Hindu seemed mercifully to be lifted. She became normal again, flirted a bit, entertained her hotel acquaintances with her impudent wit, was proud of the callouses from golf clubs that marked her tender palms. And she put on the ten pounds of weight she had lost. She had the glorious conviction that again she was her own mistress, that never again could anyone "lay a spell" on her.

And yet her boyish cocksureness in her own strength was destined not to survive the first evening of her return to Colfax.

Banning becomes jealous of the little Romaine's attentions to Nyda, and Romaine exhibits his knowledge of another murderous art. In the next chapter.

Is Your Car the Mark

PLING! Grazing by a hairbreadth makes it a spicy act for the senior and the audience — but a ticklish hazard for the target.

In the gasoline industry as in every other—there are grades whose business it is to miss by the closest of margins the actual line of illegality — to border always on the thinnest danger edge of adulteration and motor harm.

Maybe they'll miss by a hair—but why expose your motor to the risk by being willing to stop for gas at any pump that offers itself at the roadside — the brandless unknowns, the small private enterprises, the outright irresponsible that are the natural outlets for questionable gas!

Wadhams 370

High test that IS high test

—at company stations and in the hands of substantial high grade dealers — with a brand name of highest regard, with important investment, with a forty-eight-year quality reputation to sustain — can afford no risky experiments with your motor.

Staying away from the danger line of faulty gas material is its first business — its watchword — its creed. Because it never remotely approaches the outer border of kerosenishness, it is your gasoline of safety, of protection, of performance, of economy. It is your safeguard.

At present prices, not a reason can remain for denying your motor the known superiority of 370 — summer and winter alike.

TOLERANCE WILL DECREASE CRIME

So Says State Treasurer in Address to Men's Club at Milwaukee

Milwaukee (AP)—When there is more tolerance and understanding in this world there will be less crime, less unrest and less unhappiness, Solomon Levitan, state treasurer of Wisconsin, told members of the Men's Club of Congregation of Beth Israel here Thursday evening.

"America is a great country and it is great not only because of its tremendous natural resources, but because people from all over the earth have contributed the best of the racial heritages to make the great American people," the state treasurer said. "It is not surprising that America should have its problems when you consider the great admixture of peoples from every section of the globe. The surprising thing is that there has not been more of misunderstanding than there has. It is because we are learning how to live together."

"Things could be much better if we gave more thought to religion regardless of creed. We need more religion in American life today but we need not all worship God in the same way."

"A Jew, should be proud of the fact that he is a Jew in out of the heritage and religion that has been bequeathed to him. The Christian, likewise, has a religion that has come down through ages and has been a tremendous force for good in the world. But each should recognize and respect his neighbor who is worshipping God in his own way."

"Fortunately there is, I believe, a growing spirit of tolerance in this country. We have examples of Jewish men and women all about us who are succeeding in their various fields and we cannot but recognize that the door

CATLIN ENTERTAINING U. W. ATHLETIC HEADS

George Little, director of athletics at the University of Wisconsin, and other athletic heads of the state, will be guests of Mark Catlin, Lawrence college football coach, on a fishing trip in northern Wisconsin this weekend. The Wisconsin men's basketball team stopped here Thursday on their way to Green Bay where they addressed coaches and principals of Fox River valley high schools Thursday evening at a meeting of the Northwestern Wisconsin Officials' association. They started on their trip north Friday.

to opportunity is as open to the Jew as to the Gentile in this country.

"The 'open Sesame' of opportunity in America for the Jew, it seems to me, is to make himself a part of the people with whom he lives—to make himself the best American he knows how to be. My own experience has proven that the American people will not close the doors to a Jew if he will go half way with them. I know it is possible for any Jew to win the same kindly consideration that I have received."

"Can we as Jewish Americans but give to America something of the idealism and eagerness for service which are the chief aims of Judaism, we will accomplish not only a great good for our country, but we will win our place in the sun of America's gratitude."

TAKES TESTIMONY IN 4 COMPENSATION CASES

Testimony was taken in four cases under the Workmen's Compensation act by the Wisconsin Industrial commission at a hearing at the county courthouse Wednesday afternoon and Thursday morning before Harry Nelson. Two cases were listed for hearing Thursday afternoon, four for Friday morning, and three for Friday afternoon. The commission will complete its work here Friday.

The case of Harvey Perschbacher against the Badger Utility was heard Wednesday afternoon. The former alleges he sustained permanent injuries in a fall from a telephone pole. The commission is to determine causes of the accident and the extent of the injuries.

In the case of Margaret Totzke against Lawrence college, the plaintiff alleges she received an injury to her ankle when she fell down a flight of steps. Chris Olson claimed he sustained severe injuries to his back while lifting paper at the Beigstrom Paper company at Neenah. Edison J. Guerin alleges he received injuries to his feet while employed by the Weyauwega Milling company.

NEENAH COED HELPS TO CAPTURE PROWLER

Miss Bernice Haase, Neenah, a coed at Ripon college, aided in the capture of a prowler who was attempting to crawl through a window of a girls' dormitory at that college this week. Miss Haase and Miss Bernice Klumb of West Bend discovered the prowler on the porch, apparently intoxicated, and when he attempted to climb through the window, they dropped it on his fingers. After holding him captive by the fingers for ten minutes, the girls telephoned J. Clark Graham, dean of the college, and the police were called.

REWARD OFFERED FOR RECOVERY OF AUTO

A reward is offered for information which will lead to the recovery of a Ford roadster stolen at Madison, May 23, according to police. It is a 1927 model with the license number B201325. The number of the motor is 14838159.

FOREST JUNCTION MAN BUYS RESIDENCE HERE

The residence of James Nelson, 323 E. Spring-st., was sold this week to Christian Smith of Forest Junction. Mr. Smith will take possession of his new home in October. The deal was completed by the Carroll and Carroll Real Estate company.

FAIL TO COMPLETE PROGRAM FOR CAMP

No definite program for the annual camp of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. at Onaway Island, Waupaca, during July, were completed by the camp committee this week. The program, leaders' personnel, transportation plans and a camp budget were discussed, and the budget completed. The personnel which will be completed in a few days, will consist of a larger staff of leaders than last year and several older boys.

A new type of program will be followed this year, the committee decided. While in the afternoon the usual program of required hikes and other activities will be in force, the morning program will be a voluntary one. Rather than forcing the boys to attend groups in woodcraft, swimming, fishing, etc., the campers will be allowed to spend their time or divide it in the activities in which they are most interested.

Since Coolidge Has Decided

Since Coolidge has decided to spend his vacation in the famous Black Hills of Dakota, forty-seven states have stopped their clamoring for him. Although we are sorry he didn't choose Wisconsin in place of Dakota, we hope that he will enjoy his visit in the middle west. He undoubtedly had very good reasons for his choice.

SINCE HUNDREDS OF APPLETON'S most particular housewives have chosen Voecks Bros. as their market, they must have good reasons. They come to Voecks Bros. for the finest meat in Appleton—they come to Voecks Bros. for an unusual service—they come to Voecks Bros for satisfaction.

POSTALS, MULFORDS WIN GAMES TO KEEP UP LEAGUE RACE TIEVolleyballers Hopeful of Taking Game to Move Them Out of Cellar

Kaukauna—The Postals' and Mulford Clothiers soft ball teams kept pace in the race for the Kaukauna Soft Ball League pennant during the week. Both won their games the former taking a 9 to 3 win from Thillmany and the latter doubling Homans' transfers 20 to 2. In the Postal-Thillmany game "Duke" Borens pounded in a homer, making one of the loudest hits of the year at the municipal playgrounds. Homans never had a chance with Mulford's in their game Thursday evening. The Clothing men scored at will while A. Youngberg, Mulford twirler, had the former champs at his mercy.

The Bankers firmly entrenched themselves in third place as a result of their 9 to 7 win over Andrews Oils. On Friday evening the Electricians are scheduled to meet the Volleyballers, occupants of the cellar. The Volleyballers have failed to win a game in four tries. A win for the Electricians will put them in fourth while a win for the Volleyballers will give them a tie for seventh with Homans who now have a one game lead on the Volleyballers.

League standings:

	W	L	Pct.
Mulford's Clothiers	5	1	.833
Postals	5	1	.833
Bankers	2	3	.400
Thillmany	2	3	.400
Andrews Oils	2	3	.400
Electricians	2	3	.400
Homans' Transfers	1	4	.200
Volleyballers	0	4	.000

BUILD FENCE AROUND TOP OF CITY'S PLAYGROUND

Kaukauna—Workmen have placed fences along the canal bank and the playground wall up to the stair entrance to the municipal playground. Members of the public grounds and building committee believed fences necessary on the road at the top of the canal wall.

Alderman E. R. Landreman also called the attention of the south side street department to the canal bridge on Main-ave. He said the space between the guard rails is so great that a small child could fall between into the canal. Mr. Landreman ordered small meshed wire fence to cover the railings on the bridge of both sides. The alderman said the accident was fortunate that no accidents had happened there since the bridge had been built. Swimming will be prohibited in the canal near the Main-ave bridge.

Social Items

Kaukauna—Mrs. John Heinz entertained the Playfare Bridge club at her home Thursday evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. Carl Specht, Mrs. John Maher and Mrs. John Haen. The next meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. John Maher.

Mrs. Ben Prugh, Mrs. Whitman, Mrs. H. T. Runtz, Mrs. Frank Charlesworth and Mrs. C. D. Tousey attended a 1 o'clock luncheon given by Mrs. Edward Hogan at her Neenah home Thursday. The afternoon was spent in playing cards.

The Nightingale club met at the home of Miss Loretta Driessen on Tuesday evening. Cards were played and prizes were won by Miss Agnes Hartzheim and Miss Harriet Berkers. The next meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of Miss Berkers.

H. S. ATHLETIC FIELD

Kaukauna—Coach William Smith of the Kaukauna High school has announced plans for building a quarter mile track in the rear of the high school building, along the banks of the canal. Coach Smith has organized a Better Sports club and he expects members of the club to do the work. The track will be 17 feet wide. The cinder track will be built on the proposed athletic field and when the field is completed it is expected to enlarge the quarter-mile track to a semi-circle, thus making room for other events. Work will be started in the fall. It is possible that the next Northeastern Interscholastic meet will be held at Kaukauna.

Coach Smith also has organized Better Sports club in the Park and Nicolet grade schools.

COUNCIL PREPARES FOR YEAR'S PAVING PROGRAM

Kaukauna—A resolution ordering curbs and gutters on all streets and hills on the south side is expected to be brought before the council at its regular meeting Tuesday evening. The curbs are to be of concrete. This year's paving program calls for paving parts of Quincy-ave, Main-ave and Reume-ave. Several aldermen favor using asphalt for paving. The pavement is three inches thick on a stone base and a ten ton roller presses it down to a thickness of two inches.

The Post-Crescent's representative at Kaukauna is Gordon Patton. His telephone numbers are 298 J and 10. Business with The Post-Crescent may be transacted through Mr. Patton.

PIGEON FANCIERS HOLD
SPECIAL 300 MILE RACE

Kaukauna—The Kaukauna Pigeon club will fly a special race from Britt, Ia., on Sunday. Britt is 300 miles from Kaukauna by air line. About sixty birds were shipped Thursday evening for Sunday's race.

Last Sunday's four hundred mile race from Storm Lake, Ia., was disastrous, for less than half of the birds shipped returned and they were several days late in reaching Kaukauna. No official timing was made.

On Sunday, June 12, the regular flying schedule will be resumed.

SISTERS ACCUSED OF SHOPLIFTING

Two Kaukauna Girls Haled Into Court Following Arrest
Here This Week

Two sisters from Kaukauna, 16 and 17 years old, were arrested Wednesday afternoon by Sergeant John Duval for shoplifting. The case against one girl was adjourned for 30 days and the other is to appear in court this week.

The older girl was suspected of stealing a pair of slippers from the Fred Lichten and Son Shoe store, 612 W. College ave., May 19. At that time Mr. Lichten reported the loss to Sergeant Duval and given a description of the shoes. Early Wednesday morning the girl, accompanied by her sister, entered the Lichten store and asked to leave her coat there because it was so warm. Mr. Lichten recognized the slippers on the girl and called the police. Sergeant Duval went to the store to watch for the young lady but she did not return.

He went home to supper at 6 o'clock and while returning to College-ave later in the evening he passed the two girls and recognized the slippers. The older girl was wearing a new coat. He stopped them and inquired where they had gotten the coat. The girl replied she had bought it at Kaukauna and kept it at her aunt's home in Appleton until Wednesday when she called for it.

When the girls were taken to the police station the younger one confessed that the coat was stolen at Geenen's Dry Goods store during the afternoon. The coat was valued at $50.
